THE WOODS FULL OF 'EM.

MISSISSIPPI CANDIDATES TAK-ING ADVANTAGE OF THE

Sessions of the Courts to Ventilate Their Wit, Eloquence and Logic to the "Dear People."

[FROM AN OCCASIONAL CORRESPONDENT.] Sardis, Miss., April 25.—The Circuit Court for the first court district of Panola county convened here teday. There is not a great deal of business There is not a great deal of business before the court, but to their regret there is enough to keep the most of our people from the races, who would like to go. Besides the home bar, there was in attendance upon the court today from a distance the Hon. J. B. Morgan and Col. T. W. White from Hernando; the Hons. G. D. J. B. Morgan and Col. T. W. White from Heraando; the Hons. G. D. Shands and I. D. O'Glesby, Eugene Johnson and W. J. East from Senato-bia; the Hon. Samuel C. Cook, James Stone, L. C. Standier and Perrin H. Stone, I. C. Standing and Lowrey from Bateaville, the last named being also the brilliant young editor of the Panolian, and A. H. Whitfield and J. J. Slack from Gre-

The woods are full of caudidates who wish to be "employed" by the qualified electors at the next ensuing election to prosecute for the State, and a quartette of these gentlemen made an exhibition of their wit, elequence, powers of oratory and argument be-fore the voters present today. Judgs Roane was considerate, and abbreviating his usually long charge to the grand jory, adjourned his court from II to 2 o'clock to give the candidates a chance at the "dear people," and they made the most of the occasion that was possible.

Mr. Whitfield led off in his usual happ, style, and entertained his audiabout forty-five minutes in a speech replete with wit, eloquence and classic lare, and partrayed before them in forcible language the order of ability, talent and moral worth a man should possess to represent the dignity and majesty of the great State of Mississippi as her prosecuting officer. At the close of Mr. Whitfield's speech Mr. Slack, though slightly disfigured, was still in the ring, and came forward smiling. He is the battle scarred veteran of the quartette, and gave his war record in a vein of humor almost equal to that of the most celebrated humorists of the day. He insisted that to secure a Prosecuting Attorney equal in talent, and ability to the standard erected by Mr. Whitfield that Daniel Webster would have to be resurrected. In regard to moral worth be claimed to be nothing but an honest sinner, and said he had not played poker since Confederate money became worthless, and though when at the point of staryation during Hood's campaign he stole a few hogs in Georgia, he thought the offense was barred by the statute of limitation.

Mr. O'Glesby followed Mr. Stack, and and desirous is he of being sgain employed to prosecute for the State for the third term, that, like Jacob, he considers the time he has already served as short. With eyes suffused in tears, he rebutted Slack's war record with a touching, tender and pathetic allusion to the time when a mere boy, he carried wa'er to the fellows who made bullets, muskets and other munitions of war, that others older and more fortunate might become battle scarred veterans.

Mr. O'Glesby appealed to the voters to leave sentiment out and make a business transaction out of it in selectthat after eight years of service he was better qualified to serve the State four more than others without the same degree of experience. The burden of his sjeech was upon the idea that because he had been in office eight years he had acquired sufficient experience to entitle him to the position four years more.

The Hon. Samuel C. Cook, who so ably and efficiently represented Panola county in the last Legislature, closed the interesting discussion. He urged that a great deal of the argument had been wholly irrelevant. That a man ought not to be elected to office simply because he had made a good soldier, or had carried water to the bullet moulders and mustet makers. That while he was in arms during the war it was his mother's arms and was only 10 years of age when the war closed. That while he recognized the fact that competency and fitness was requisits in the law efficer of the district, he believed in maintaining Damocratic principles, preceden's and su-premacy, and invoked the sound Demceratic principle and precedent of rotation in office as necessary to maintain supremacy. He showed very clearly that, O'Glesby's argument, if followed would gr w gray in the service and at last die with "narness on his back." That at the end of four years more, according to the caim of Mr O'Glesby, he would be better qualified than now and for that reason would renew argument at the close of the "third term," and at the close of each sucspeaker slaimed that such doctrine speaker slaimed that such doctrine was dangerous in the extreme, and contrary to the capina and spirit of was dangerous in the extense, and spirit of democratic treatutions. That while he recognized the fact that Mr. O'Glesby was competent there were others equally so. That he was an ardent supporter of Mr. O'G esby for the second term, but would not supporter to test its validity. port any man for this office for a longer period.

The writer observed that Mr. O'Glesby did not say he would not be a candidate for a fourth, or a fifth, or a later term, if continued in office now, and for successive terms. In fact, he left the impression on his hearers that, having a peculiar fitness for the office, he had unfurled his banner on the outer wall, and in all probability would be a candidate while life lasts. With due deference to Mr. O. Glesby's pressing inclination to the "wind-ward" side of this question, I fully be-lieve he ought to "cast anchor" where he is, and gracefully retire from the field. If he fails to do so, I further believe that a representative conven-tion of Democrats will "sit down on him" The race promises to be a live him" The race promises to be a live ly one, as a nomination is considered equivalent to an election. VERITAS.

A Savagely Brutal Prize Fight NEW YORK, April 26 -Jack Hopper, this city, and Mike Cushing, of New Jersey, light weights, fought twenty-five rounds, up the Hudson river, at daybreak this morning, in one hour and thirty-nine minutes. Although Cushing broke an arm in the eighteenth round, he continued gamely Hopper finally won. Up to the end of the eighteenth round every-thing seem d to be in Cushing's lavor, and his backers were in high spir ts, but when he went to his corner it was discovered that he had broken two small bones in his wrist by striking Hopper on the head After that round Hopper got in much the most effective work and soon had Cushing's face a Subscribe for the "Appentation".

mass of raw and bleeding flesh. The twenty-flith and last round was one of the flereest ever seen by the sporting people present. Young Coshing started in and made the final attempt and cut the pace in the round, swinging his injured right with such force that he again broke it above the wrist, smashing all the bones in the grist. smashing all the bones in the wrist and shoving them through the skin. The injury was so appares to Ho per and his seconds that they urges him to go in and finish his man, which he did, sending his left with terrible force on the point of Cushing's jaw, knock-ing him down. He was unable to rise in the prescribed ten seconds, and Hopper was declared the winner.

PRETTY MAGGIE M'CARTHY

THE YOUNG WOMAN MURDERED BY SO 1 E VILLAIN

While Defending Her Maidenbood and Honor, Burled With Touching Ceremonies.

CLEVELAND, O., April 26.—Maggie McCarthy, the pretty young servant in the household of Rev. Wm. Smith, assistant paster of the First Presbyterian Church, who died defending her honor, was buried today. Rev. Father Thorpe, of St. John's Cathedral, delivered the sermon. Among other things, he said: "This murderer balongs to a class that females would be justified in a ming themselves against.
They would be justified in striking down the man that insulted them. I know of no crime that cries to Heaven as that of this wretch who still lives, but who will be judged by God. Oh, friends, is it not a consolation that we have found women in our land who will lay down life gooner than honor. Sach chastity and virtue is a consola t on to mourning friends. She died for honor; she died for purity; she died a martyr's death; and may God have mercy on her soul. That spirit that no base hand can lay touch upon, has gone to God, and may God receive." While the clergyman was speaking, audible sobs were heard from all pasts of the church, and at the coscinsion the vast assemblage was in tears. The casket was borne to the vestibule of the cathedral, where the remains were viewed as the people passed out. The cortege then took its way to St. John's Cemetery on Wood and avenue, where the in-terment took place, and where poor murdered Maggie McCarthy was laid

AN IMPROMPTU DUEL Between an Ex-Supreme Judge and the State Auditor—Both Men Wounded,

St. Louis, Mo., April 26.—A special fram Jefferson City, Mo., to the Post-Dispatch says that Ex-Supreme Judge John W. Henry and State Auditor Walker had an altercation on the street between 9 and 10 o'clock this morning, in which Judge Henry was shot once in the right arm and again in the breast, and Walker was severely ent in the head by a blow from Judge Henry's Cane. Both men are now in clarge of physicians. The origin of the trouble is not given.

The affargies out of the late investigation of Auditor Walker by a legislative committee. Walker accused Judge Henry of talking about him with a view to injuring him and took strong exception to the judge's testimony before the committee Judge Henry replied that he had told nothing but the truth, whereupon Walker in very profane and emphatic language called him a liar. Judge language called him a har. Judge Henry thea struck Walker over the head with his cane and Walker whipped out a pistol and fired at him. The ball entered the palm of the judge's left hand, passed up the arm just under the skin to near the elbow where it came out, crossed his breast and lodged in the breast bone. The wound is severe and may be a danger-ous one. Walker got a heavy blow on the left temple, cuiting a long gash, and he is now suffering from nervous prostration, palpitation of the heart and numbness of his left side, but the dectors say he will be all right in a few days. Both are old men, and Judge Henry quite feeble.

THE THROUGH PICKET Trouble Between the Trunk Lines Assuming a Nove Serious Phase.

PITTSBURG, Pa., April 26.- The troub e between the railroads of the Western Passenger Association and those of the Certral Traffic Associati n regarding the sale of through tickets and the abolishing of commissions, is assuming a more serious phase. It is said that a number of the roads that consented to the proposed agreement with the Eastern roads, including the Gould system, have not fully complied with the proposed sgreement. As a result, the Pennsylvania Company has issued another circular, discontinuing the sale of tickets of the following roads:
Burlington and Missouri River; Chicage, Burlington and Oniney; Chicago, tickets and the abolishing of commiscago, Burlington and Quiney; Chicego, Milwaukee and St. Paul; Green Bay, Winona and St. Paul; Hannibal and St. Joseph; Kansas City, St. Joseph and Council Binfls; Missouri Pacific; Missouri, Kansas and Texas; Milwankee and Northern; St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern; St. Louis, Keckuk and Northwestern, and the Texas and Pacific. This makes a total of thirty-two railroads in the West over which the Pennsylvania Company has now cassed to sell through

GREAT SUCCESS IN PROCURING SUBSCRIPTIONS.

An Interview With Judge T. J. Latham and Dr. Porter-Very Gratifying Results.

Learning that the business men of Memphis were making private sub-scriptions to the capital stock of the Tennessee Midland Railway Company, and that there was something like an organ zed movement on foot to pro-mote the enterprise, an Appear re-porters arted out in quest of informa-tion. He soon ascertained that Judge T.J. Lutham was actively soliciting subscriptions, and he at once started on a hunt for that ubiquitous gentleman. When he was overtaken and requested to stand and deliver what information he had on the subject, the judge said: "Several mintus ago a committee was appointed by a meeting of business men to canvass for subscriptions to the Tennessee Midland. The operations of the commit-tee were suspended, when the appli-cation for a subscription to the county was under discussion. That applicamittee har gone to work. As chairman of the committee I am doing what I can. I am for the Tennessee Midland, and have believed from the start that its accommittee I start that its construction would do more for Memphis than any railroad that could ever be built. We want more manufactories and more industries, and these the Tennessee Mid land will give us. We want direct connection with the other portions of the State and this it will secure us. The Memphis, Birmingham and Atlantic will give us direct connection with the coal and iron of A'atawa, and we want a com-peting line to the coal and iron of Tennessee, and this the Midland will give us. We want timber for our wood yards, limestone for our streets and marble for our buildings, and it will give us all these. I was in favor of the county subscribing, but some of our best citizens having opposed a county subscription I now favor individuals subscribing. I have subscribed myself, and now want my neighbors to join me. I have no interest in the matter except as a citizen who wishes matter except as a citizen who wishes Memphis well. All my investments have been made in Memphis, and all I have got is here. I believe I will be benefited by helping the enterprise, and I am doing all I can."

"Well, Jude, what success are you meeting with?"

"As good as I expected." replied the

"As good as I expected," replied the judge. "I have only canvassed in company with a friend for a few hours. Many of our business men were ab sent or gone to the races, and it will require several days to see them all. I feel confident Memphis will do her par', judging by the success we have had today. In a few hours we raised about $23,000."

In reply to questions put by the re-porter, the judge said the terms of the subscriptions were that they were to become due and payable when the road is constructed and put in operation from Memphis to the Tennesses river. The company was anxious to identify the people of Memphis with the enterprise, and any subscriber de siring to invest money in the construc-

DR. PORTER.

Learning that Dr. Porter was one of the subscribers, the reporter called on that gentleman. Dr. Porter, in reply that gentieman. Dr. Porter, in reply to his inquiries, said: "It is true I made a subscription to the capital stock of the Tennessee Midland. not wish it to be understood that because I opposed a county sucception
I am opposed to the road. The truth is I believe the road will do a great deal for Memphis, and I want to see it built, and am willing, individually, to help it. I think our business men should all assist it and do all they can to secure its construction. I am willing to do my part." When asked why he opposed a county subscription, the doctor said: "If I lived in Fayette county or in any of the counties east of Memphis, I would favor a county subscription. A committee from Jack son waited on me several weeks ago and wanted my opinion about the pro-priety of the city of Jackson subscrib-I told them if I tived in Jackson I would vote for the subscription, but was opposed to it in Memphis or Shelevery kind of applications for rub criptions. The bars would be down again and we might never hear the last of it. I explained all this to Mr. Leake, and told him I stood ready as an individual to help his road. I believe that Memphis will do her part."

The reporter talked to other leading citizens, and became sa i fied that the Tennessee Midland was at last on the right track so far as Memphis is con-
